The LAKE English Classics Series

Remember the name LAKE and the color of the binding—"the little blue books."

Other editions will be offered you as "just as good as the LAKE" but there is no substitute.

There are no classics like the LAKE EDITION; that is, there are no classics available prepared with the same editorial care and with the same knowledge of the needs of the average school.

Four* LAKE ENGLISH CLASSICS "just a bit different"—

Teter's One Hundred Narrative Poems
Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America with Collateral Readings
Greenlaw's Builders of Democracy

A Manual of Debate and Oral Discussion

By JAMES M. O'NEILL

12mo 303 pages $1.50

This book is for schools, clubs, and societies. It is essentially different from any other text now available. The treatment is short, simple, and above all, accurate. The aim is to make debating and discussion more directly identical with the actual debating of practical life. The statements regarding evidence, burden of proof, issues, etc., are true not only for classes, but also wherever orderly, public discussion takes place.

In addition to presenting the principles of argumentation and debate, Professor O'Neill gives helpful suggestions as to conducting discussion contests, the organization and judging of debates, the rules of procedure, briefing and debating leagues.
